INTERNAL · FOR KIMLIEN · NOT FOR THE CLIENT

Handbook for the Phan's meeting

Everything you need to know, written for someone who isn't technical. Read it once before you go, and keep it handy.

Xin, TheWebxite · October 2026

If you remember only five things

1. Today's goal: show them, agree what we'll build, collect information. No signing, no prices.
2. Xin sends the price after the meeting. If they ask: “Xin will send a detailed quote right after today.”
3. The domain is the address, hosting is the house. Email isn't affected. Booking stays on Koalendar.
4. In the first phase the shop is a showcase only, no online payment.
5. Not sure of an answer? “I'll note it and Xin will reply in writing after the meeting.” That's completely fine.

1. The story so far

- Phan's Custom Tailor is a tailor in a villa in Saigon Pearl, Binh Thanh, run by Thinh and Thuong Phan (both trained as architects). Most customers are from overseas: 975 Tripadvisor reviews (4.8), 1,115 Google reviews (4.9).
- Their current site is tailormadesuit.net, built on Haravan, and dated.
- Xin built a mock-up (demo) of a new site for them to see: phans-custom-tailor-demo.vercel.app. You've sent it to Thinh with our messages and spoken on the phone.
- They want to go ahead. Today you present in person at the villa.
- Thinh also works with a separate Web 3D team. We're not competing with them (see section 8).

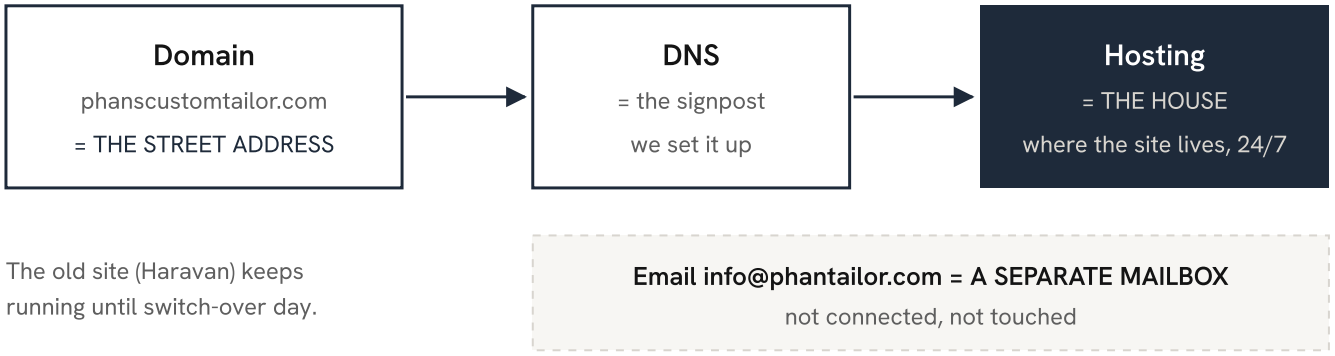

2. What to bring and prepare

- [ ] Download Gap-mat-Phans-VI.pdf onto your laptop or iPad beforehand (don't rely on their wifi). Open it once at home to check.
- [ ] Have the mock-up open in a browser (Chrome or Safari). Keep your phone hotspot ready in case the internet is slow.
- [ ] Charge your devices. Bring a notebook and pen, or print section 7 (the checklist) to tick off.
- [ ] Keep the presenter notes (Ghi-chu-trinh-bay-Kimlien-VI.pdf) on your phone to glance at.
- [ ] Offer to send them the deck afterwards. It's only about 2 MB now and goes through Zalo easily.

Note: the mock-up shows “Try-On” buttons (AI try-on) on product photos. We are not offering this yet. If they tap it or ask: “It's a feature we're testing, not part of the proposal yet. Xin will follow up.”

3. How a website works, explained simply

Think of a website as a house. There are three parts: the address (domain), the house (hosting), and the signpost (DNS) that sends visitors who type the address to the right house. Email is a separate mailbox, not inside the house, so it's not affected.

When we switch, we build the new house and change the signpost. The address stays the same, so customers notice no break.

Words you might hear

WORD	WHAT IT MEANS
Website	Phan's “shop on the internet”. Overseas customers check prices, cloth and booking before they fly.
Mock-up (demo)	A preview Xin built. Some photos and products are samples, to be swapped for Phan's real ones.
Domain	The site's address, like a street address. Phan's already owns phanscustomtailor.com and tailormadesuit.net. Paid yearly, always in Phan's name.
Hosting	The house the website lives in, so it's open 24/7. TheWebxite looks after it.
DNS / pointing the domain	The signpost: we change it so the address leads to the new house. We do it; we just need access to the domain account.
Redirects	Anyone clicking an old Google link still lands on the right new page, so Phan's keeps its search visitors.
Haravan	Where the old site lives now. It keeps running until switch-over, then they can cancel it.

WORD	WHAT IT MEANS
Koalendar	The booking calendar Phan's already uses. The new site just links to it, nothing changes.
Payment gateway	A service for paying by card online (in Vietnam: OnePay, VNPay). Only needed if they sell online later.
Maintenance	After launch we watch over it, back it up, fix problems and make small updates when they ask.
Google Business	Phan's page on Google Maps (hours, reviews). We need access to link the new site to it.

4. What we're offering

Turn the mock-up into Phan's official website. About one week of work, counted from when they send all the photos and details.

ITEM	FIRST PHASE
3-language site: English (main), Vietnamese, Chinese	Yes
Prices, the process, cloth	Yes
Booking a measuring visit on the site (Koalendar calendar), WhatsApp, Zalo	Yes, as today
Showcase shop: customers browse, then message or book	Yes
Move the 7 old articles, Google optimisation	Yes
Hosting, backups, maintenance	TheWebxite
Online sales, cart, card payment	Later
AI fitting room	Not offered yet

Why no online sales yet? It needs someone handling orders every day, packing, overseas shipping, returns and a payment gateway. And for made-to-measure, customers still have to come in to be measured. So a showcase is enough for now; online sales can come later.

5. Going through the deck (about 20 minutes)

SLIDES	WHAT'S ON IT	WHAT TO SAY OR ASK
1–2	Cover and Xin's letter	Greet, thank them. Let them read the letter.
3	975	Overseas customers look Phan's up before flying. The site is where they meet Phan's first.

SLIDES	WHAT'S ON IT	WHAT TO SAY OR ASK
4–7	Home, prices, phones, old vs new	Show the site. Ask for missing prices. Ask who can read the Vietnamese.
8–9	Booking, shop	Koalendar stays. The shop is a showcase; online sales later.
10–11	Domain, 3D team	Explain with the house picture. Ask which domain they want as main.
12–14	Phases, what we need, timeline	Go through the section 7 checklist. No fixed dates.
15	Close	Let them scan the QR. Xin sends the quote. Thank them.

Showing the live mock-up (if there's internet)

- Open the link and tap MENU (top left) to see the pages: Suits & pricing, Process, Fabrics, Shop, Contact.
- Tap EN next to the booking button to switch to VI or 中文. You stay on the same page.
- Hand them the phone to scroll themselves; most customers look on a phone.
- On the Contact page, scroll to "Choose a time for your consultation": Phan's Koalendar calendar shows right inside the site, like the old one. Tap "Book now" to show the free times, but don't finish a booking: it would create a real appointment.
- Don't test the enquiry form on the Contact page: it sends a real email to Phan's.

6. Questions they may ask, and what to say

IF THEY ASK	YOU SAY
How much?	"Xin will send a detailed quote right after today, based on what you choose." No numbers.
Is there a monthly fee?	"Yes, for hosting and maintenance. Xin will list it in the quote."
How long?	"About a week after you send all the photos and details."
Can we edit it ourselves?	"Just message us and we update it under maintenance. If you want to edit it yourselves, we can discuss."
Can customers still book a measuring appointment like on the old site?	"Yes. The Contact page has your Koalendar calendar built in, so customers pick a day and time as they do now. Appointments still go to your Koalendar, nothing changes. There's also a booking button on every page."
Will we lose our Google ranking?	"No, old links lead to the new pages."
Will email be affected?	"No, info@phantailor.com stays as it is."
When do we cancel Haravan?	"Once the new site runs smoothly. Until then the old one keeps working."

IF THEY ASK	YOU SAY
Who owns the domain?	“Always Phan's. We only need access to point it.”
Can we sell online?	“Yes, but better as a later phase. Xin can send options if you'd like.”
What's the Try-On / AI button?	“A feature we're testing, not part of the proposal yet. Xin will follow up.”
What about the 3D team?	“They fit together. The website is the house, the 3D work can be a page inside it. We're happy to work with them.”
Who did the Chinese?	“We did. You just need someone to read the Vietnamese.”
Did you use AI?	“Yes. TheWebxite is a software and AI company; AI helps us work faster and better. Design, testing and support are done by real people.”

7. Information to collect (tick as you go)

You don't need everything today. Just ask, and note when they'll send it.

- ☐ Domain: who holds the account for phanscustomtailor.com and tailormadesuit.net; which one as main (we suggest phanscustomtailor.com).
- ☐ Photos: the villa, the two of them, finished garments, cloth; the original logo. Ask when they can send them.
- ☐ Missing prices: blazer, waistcoat, overcoat, women's. VND only, or USD too?
- ☐ Details: the year they started (old site says “since 2013”), Tết closures, whether customers abroad can reorder. Turnaround: the old site says 5 working days but their Koalendar says 7–10 days. Ask which is right.
- ☐ Someone at Phan's to read the Vietnamese.
- ☐ Accounts: the Koalendar link, the official Facebook page, Google Business access.
- ☐ Main contact person and channel (Zalo, WhatsApp, email).
- ☐ 3D team: do they want us to coordinate? Get a contact.

8. Don't promise

- ✕ A specific price, a discount or payment terms.
- ✕ Online sales or card payment in the first phase.
- ✕ The AI fitting room.
- ✕ A specific launch date.
- ✕ A dashboard for them to edit the site themselves.
- ✕ Buying a new domain (Phan's already has one).

9. When you're stuck, say this

- “Good question. I'll note it so Xin can answer properly in writing.”
- “We handle all the technical side. You only need to send photos and details.”

- “That will be in the quote, which Xin sends right after today.”

If something urgent comes up during the meeting, message Xin on WhatsApp.

10. After the meeting, send Xin

- What they agreed to, and anything to add or drop.
- The main domain, and who holds the account.
- The missing prices and details you got.
- Questions we couldn't answer.
- When they'll send photos and details, and when they want the quote.
- Your overall feel: did they seem happy, what worried them.