PHAN'S
CUSTOM TAILOR

A new website for Phan's Custom Tailor

A working mock-up to preview: a three-language website designed for overseas customers who want a suit made in Saigon.

New website mock-up: phans-custom-tailor-demo.vercel.app

Current website: tailormadesuit.net

Prepared by Yong, TheWebxite · October 2026

CONTEXT

Most of Phan's customers are from overseas, and they decide before they book their flight

Phan's already has an excellent reputation with international customers. A visitor is usually in Saigon for only a few days, so the website has to answer their questions up front:

1. How much a suit, shirt or trousers cost
2. How long it takes and how many visits
3. Which fabrics are available
4. How to book while still abroad
5. Can they trust it: real reviews from past customers

4.8
on Tripadvisor · 975 reviews

4.9
on Google · 1,115 reviews

working days to finish a suit

languages: English, Vietnamese, Chinese

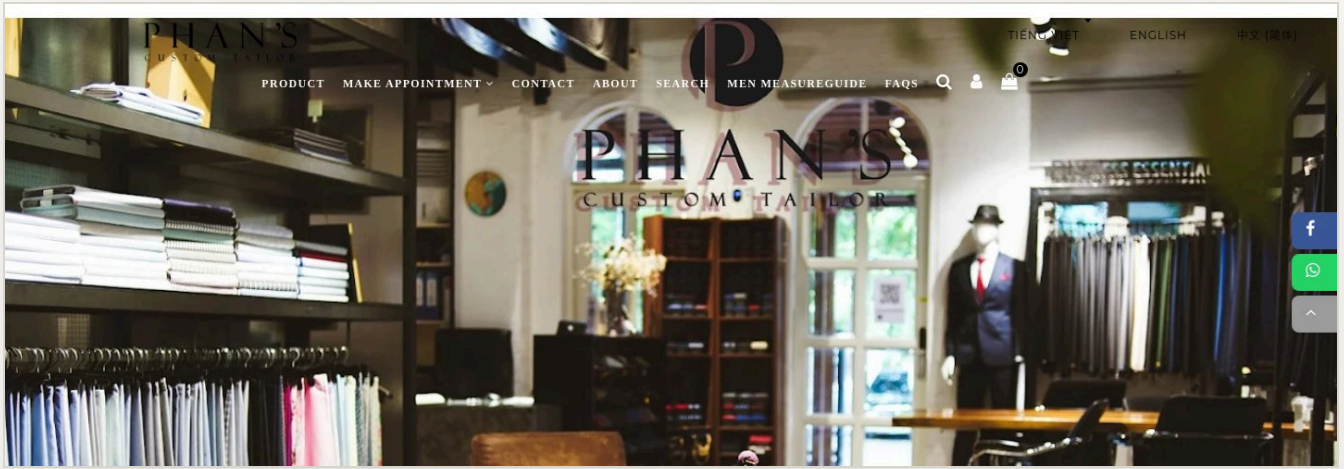

> GOAL
> Visitors find everything in a few minutes and book straight away, instead of messaging to ask one question at a time.

CURRENT WEBSITE

Where overseas visitors get stuck today

1. Choosing Chinese still shows English, mixed with Vietnamese system text such as “Chưa có sản phẩm nào…” and “Mua ngay”.
2. Prices and turnaround are only in the FAQ.
3. The Suit, Pants and Dress Shirt tabs are empty; the shop has one product.
4. The Testimonials section is empty, despite 2,000+ great reviews online.
5. Blog posts mix three languages on one page.

> CAUSE
> The Haravan shop template is built for retail, not for made-to-measure by appointment.

HOME PAGE

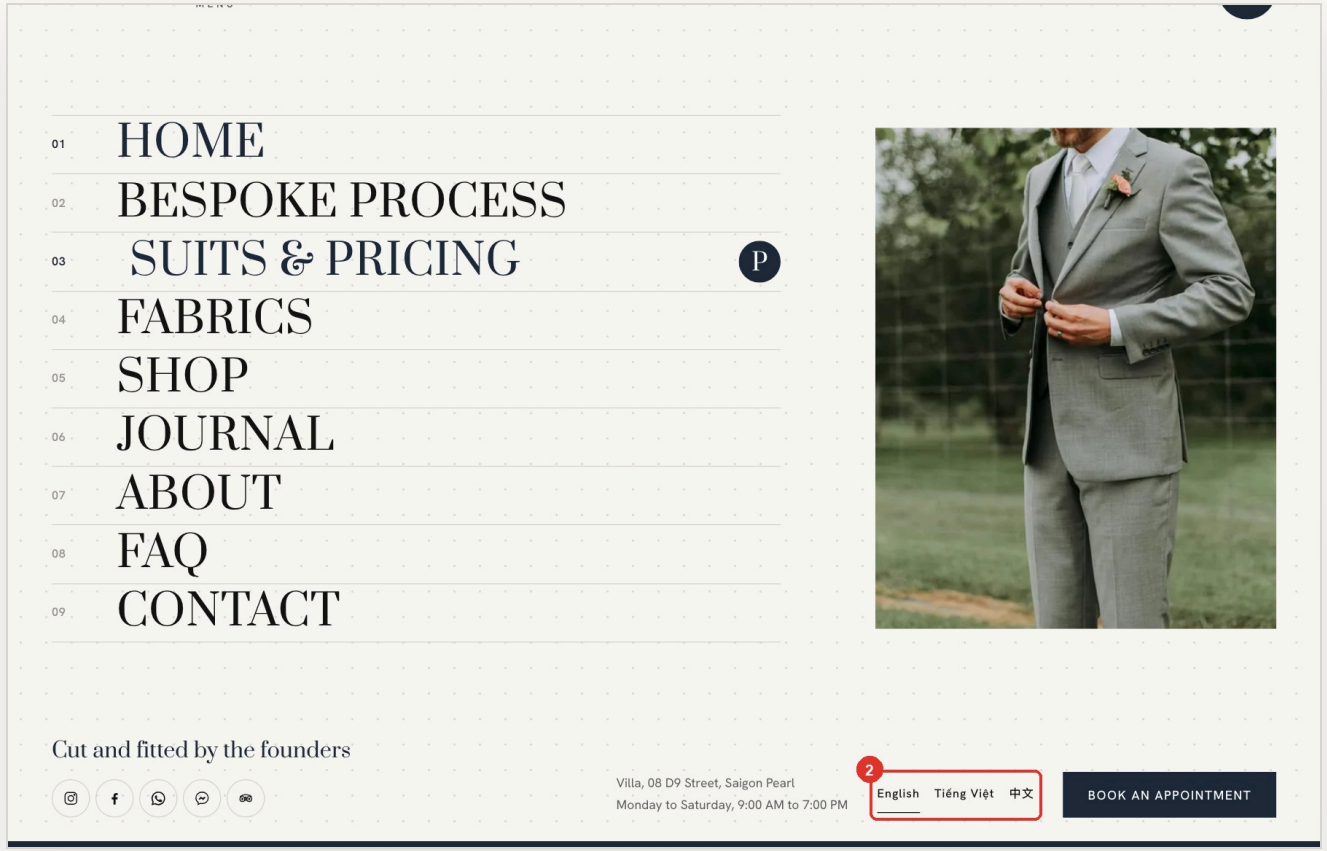

First impression: Phan's own photography, straight to what visitors need

1. Phan's own campaign photo, full screen like Suitsupply or Brioni.
2. Six direct entry points: Suits, Shirts, Trousers, Women's tailoring, Fabrics, Book a fitting.
3. Hovering a link folds the photo into that section's image, like moving cloth.
4. “Book an appointment” always sits top right.

> WHY
> Visitors decide in seconds whether to stay, so we take them straight to prices, fabrics and booking.

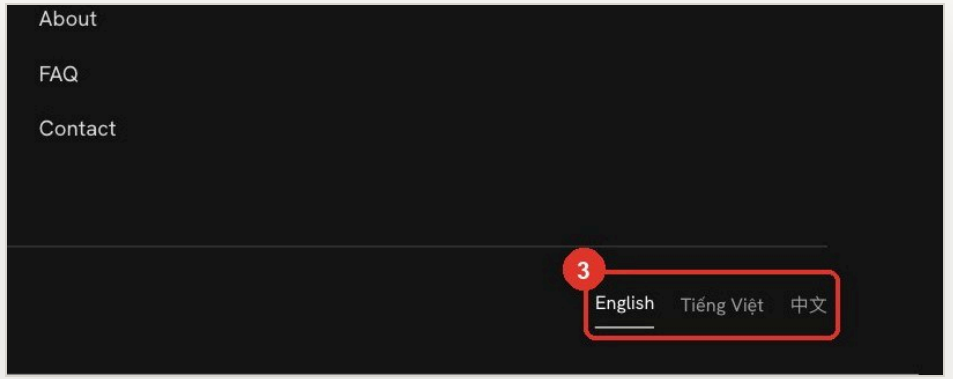

Three places to switch language, on desktop and mobile

2 Inside the full-screen menu, at the bottom.

1 Top right of every page: tap EN to choose English, Tiếng Việt or 中文.

3 At the bottom of every page (footer).

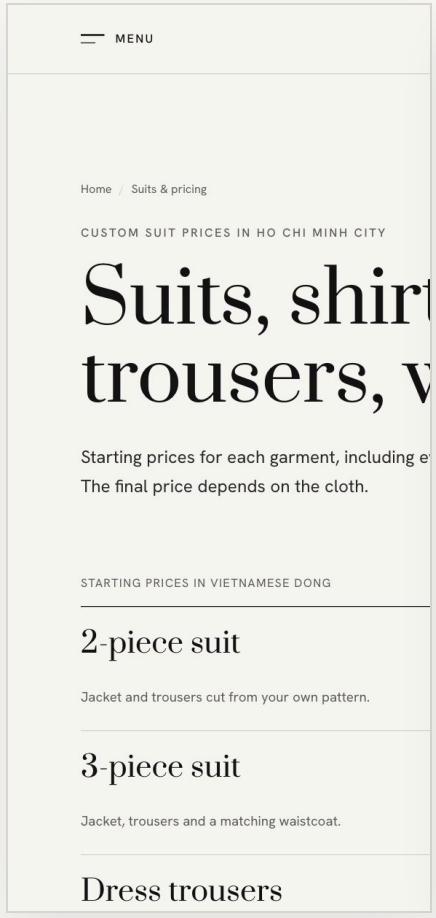

Switching keeps visitors on the same page: from the English price list straight to the Chinese price list.

WHY THREE LANGUAGES

Every customer reads the whole site in their own language

English	Main language: most customers are from overseas.
中文	Visitors from China, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Singapore, Malaysia.
Tiếng Việt	Local customers and overseas Vietnamese.

1. Fully translated, never mixed: menus, buttons, prices, FAQ, forms, articles.
2. Separate web address per language (/vi/, /zh/), so Google shows the right version for searches like “custom suit Saigon” or “胡志明市 定制西装”.

English

Tiếng Việt

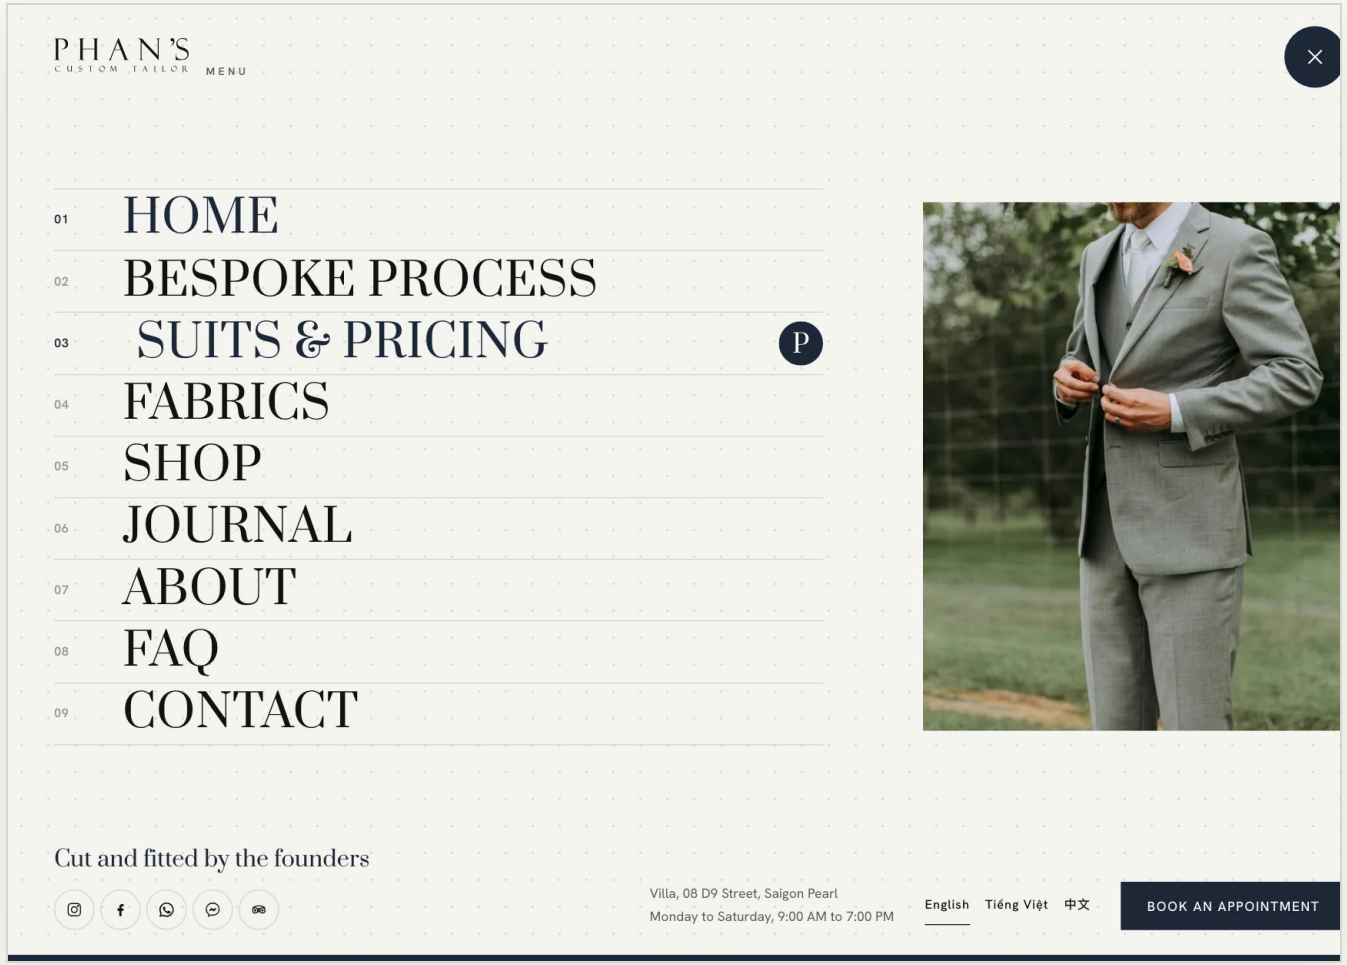

中文

A full-screen menu that is clear and easy to tap on a phone

1. Nine numbered items that follow the questions customers ask: process, prices, fabrics, shop, contact…
2. Hovering an item highlights it, shows the “P” monogram and a preview photo.
3. At the bottom: social links, language switch and booking.

> WHY
> The old menu had items like “Men Measureguide” and “Search”, so visitors didn't know where to start.

Clear prices, laid out like a tailor's price list

1. Starting prices: 2-piece suit from 6,800,000 VND, 3-piece from 8,400,000, trousers from 2,200,000, shirts from 1,300,000.
2. What every price includes: private consultation, 20+ measurements, fittings, pressing, free lifetime alterations.
3. Booking and WhatsApp buttons right below the list.

> WHY
> Overseas visitors compare prices before they travel. With no price shown, they assume it's expensive and go elsewhere.

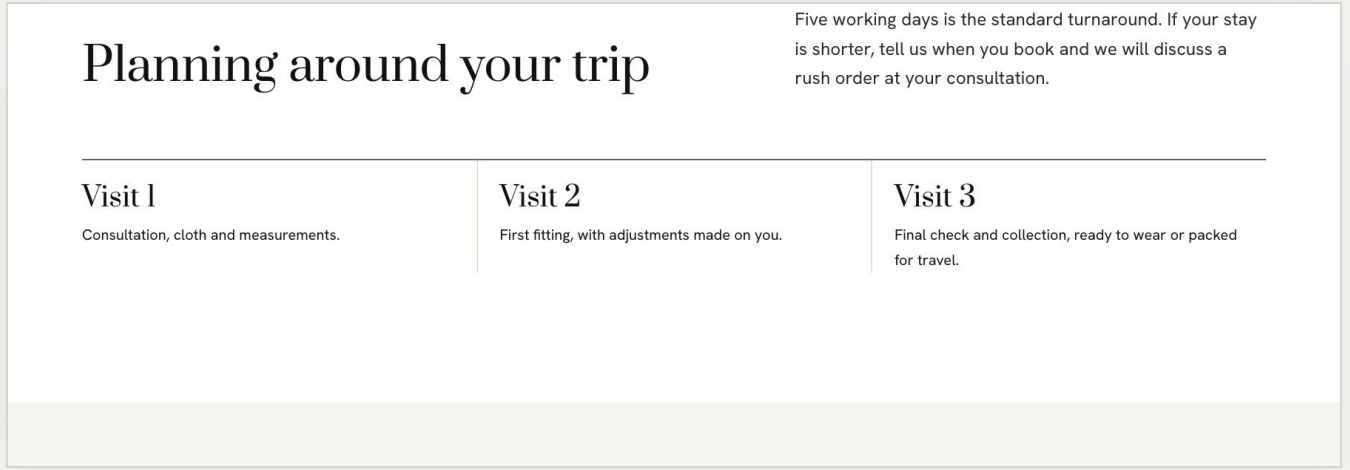

Five steps to a suit, planned around a short trip

1. Five steps: book, consultation and measuring, fitting, finishing, lifetime alterations.
2. “Planning around your trip”: visit 1 consultation, visit 2 fitting, visit 3 collection, within 5 working days.

> WHY
> Visitors know how many days to set aside in Saigon, so they book earlier.

ONLINE SHOP

Sell Nobility cloth and ready-made pieces, managed in WooCommerce

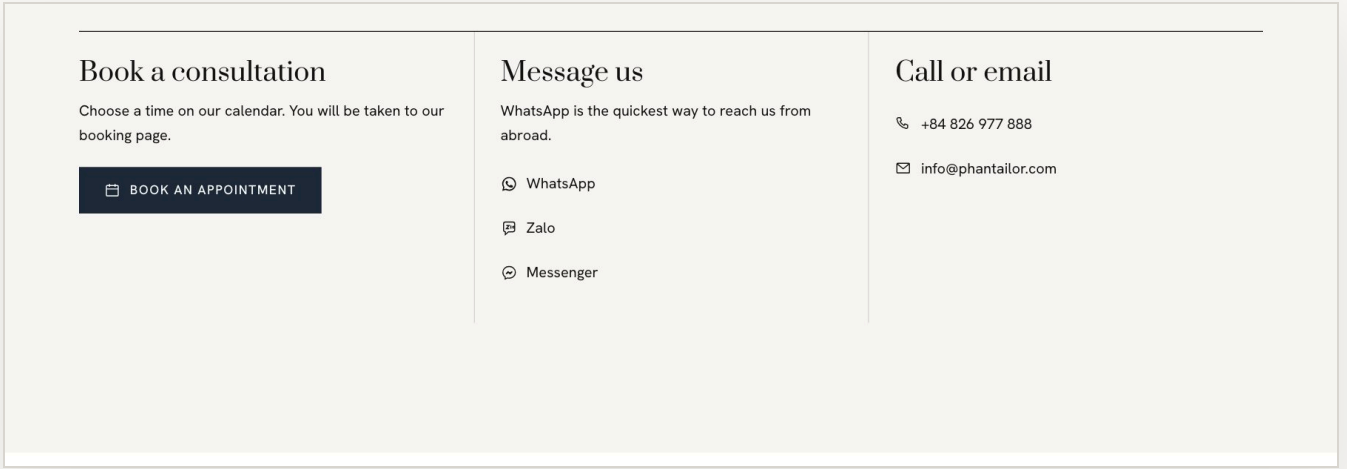

Filter by category, colour and price.

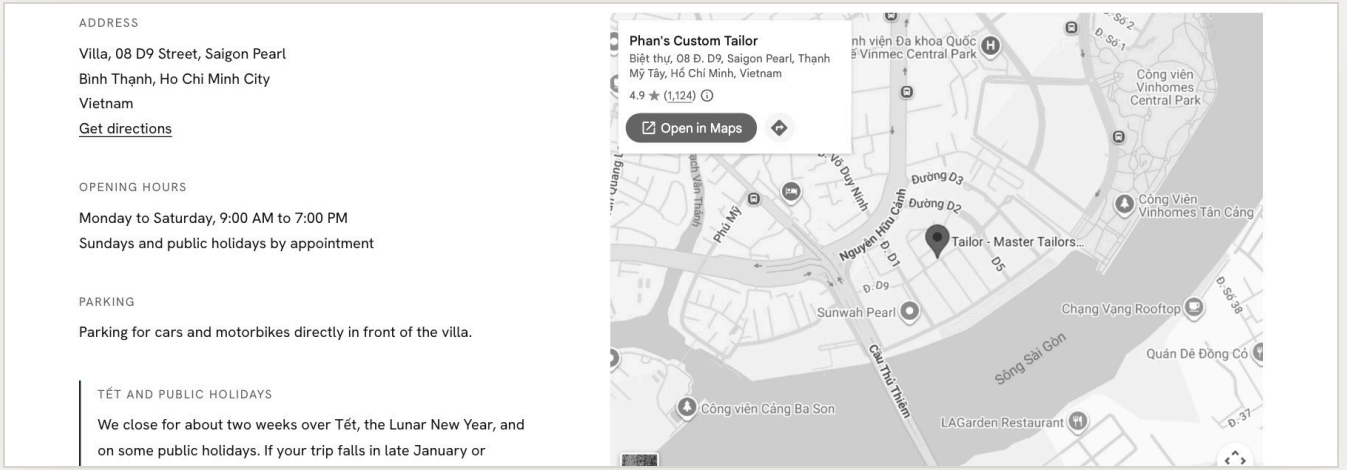

Each product has its own page with buy and WhatsApp buttons. Apart from the Cavani blazer, products are placeholders.

Every way to get in touch, in one place, even from abroad

1. Booking through the Koalendar calendar Phan's already uses.
2. WhatsApp, Zalo, Messenger; WhatsApp messages are pre-written in the visitor's language.
3. Enquiry form that asks for travel dates, to plan fittings.
4. Map, opening hours, parking and a Tết closure note.

ON MOBILE

Designed for phones, where many travellers look for a tailor

1. A bottom bar always shows two buttons: Book and WhatsApp.
2. Switch language at the top (1) or in the menu (2).
3. Compact layout: text, buttons and forms are large enough to tap easily.
4. Loads quickly on 4G.

NEXT STEPS

To finish the website, we need Phan's to confirm

1. Prices for blazers, waistcoats, overcoats and women's garments; whether to show USD.
2. Real photos of the villa, the founders and finished work.
3. Products: the Nobility cloth and ready-made pieces to sell online.
4. Vietnamese and Chinese copy: we've translated it; please review.
5. Tết and public holiday closing dates.
